

Heinz Stoewer: Picture "pool with orange wall" (2024)

€2,100.00

A view of a corner of the swimming pool, in which the orange wall behind it is reflected. The painting was inspired by the numerous swimming pools in Palm Springs, California, which are often surrounded by elaborately designed desert gardens and is also reminiscent of works by David Hockney. The interplay of sculptural-looking plants and their shadows in the hot sun creates an impressive play of colors on the orange wall bordering the garden. A typical example of life in California. But one can also ask how long such habitats make sense for people in the desert and are justifiable due to the limited water resources. The work is signed and dated on the back.
