

Heinz Stoewer: Picture "Tulips" (2023)

€1,750.00

At the transition from long winter to spring, we can hardly wait for nature's harbingers of spring and especially the first tulip blossoms in the garden! This painting is inspired by this feeling. Different colored tulip blossoms are arranged in this oil painting, which is reminiscent of flower paintings or bouquets of flowers from Baroque painting due to the choice of colors and the composition. The dark brown background, which makes the flowers of the parrot tulips stand out radiantly, emphasizes this impression. Each of the flowers and buds is different and the delicate leaves floating in front of the background bring everything together to form a bouquet. The abstract lines surrounding the whole create a sense of lightness and emphasize that this is a contemporary work. The work is signed and dated on the back.
